Mozart Last Night.

The temperature last night was anything but agreeable, but despite that fact there was a large and brilliant gathering at Mozart Hall. The event of the evening was the appearance of Miss Eoline Sheffield, who has recently returned from Boston, where for some time past she has been pursuing her musical studies. To say that the expectations of Miss Sheffield's friends were fully realized would but faintly describe the brilliant telumph, she achieved scribe the brilliant trlumph she achieved. Her voice is highly cultivated, of great Her voice is highly cultivated of great compass, and wonderfully sympathetic. Her first number, "Ah! Quel-Giorno" (Semramede), was given with great taste and expression. In response to an encore she sang a beautiful little ballad. The second number, "Creole Lover's Song," groused the audience to such a pitch of enthusiasm that a double encore was demanded. The first rises in response was

RICHMOND, VA., FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 13, 1883. DEATH OF A VETERAN.

Major George F. Norton, Superintendent of the City Railway, Gone to His Rest.

Major George Fisher Norton, superintendent of the Richmond Street Railway Company, died shortly before 4 o'clock yesterday morning at his place of residence, No. 303 east Franklin street.

The deceased, who was a soldier of marked courage, was the son of Dr. Norton, who for many years lived at Magnolia (late the farm of Mr. Nat. Bowe), in Henrico county, and who was a physician and rico county, and who was a physician and agriculturist of high standing, and whose name is linked with a grape well-known throughout Virginia as the Norton seedling. This son of his was born in May, 1840, and was educated at the Virginia Military Institute, and had just graduated a little before the breaking out of the late war. When Virginia seceded, he assisted Captain Griswold in the organization of Company D. Old Dominion Guard, of the First regiment, and was chosen orderly sergeant. On April 26, 1861, he was elected Junior second lieutenant, and at Yorktown, April 26, 1862, at the reorganization of the company, he was unanimously elected captain.

At the battle of Seven Pines he fell wounded in the thickest of the fight about him, and lay upon the field for a long time before relief came. He was again wounded at Gettysburg, and there won his commission of major for conspicuous gallantry. In May, 1864, he was in command of about In May, 1864, he was in command of about 400 men, who met Warren's corps (Grant's advance) near Milford, and by daring resistance held them in check until Long-street's men came to their aid. war Major Norton was, when not disabled by wounds, ever at his post. His men were devoted to him—as there never was a time when he was not in the front; never a time when he was not ready for the most dangerous venture; never a time when he was not ready to strike a blow for his State.

The war over, Major Norton returned to Richmond and sought to establish himself in business. At one time he was the pro-prietor of a drugstore opposite the Excross-arms as may be necessary to accommodate the municipal fire-alarm wires.

from the company's track, and the seeds of consumption, long before laid, then took deep root in him. He was quite well on last Saturday morning, and that day attended a military rednion, but he returned home at night unwell, and took to his bed, never to rise again. By Monday his case, which was dysenteric in its main feature, was regarded as almost hopeless. He was perfectly aware of his condition, and resigned to death.

He stated that he had some time written a letter, to be opened immediately after his death, giving directions as to hi funeral and naming his pall-bearers. This letter he placed in the hands of Mr. Jackson Bolton, who was out of the city yes-terday, on which account it could not be

Barbara Maler's Caso.

The case of Barbara Miller (colored), charged with the murder of Daniel Miller, her husbend, is familiar to the public. Yesterday the trial was continued before the County Court of Henrico. The indictment against her had three counts. The first charged her with being a principal in the second degree, the second charges her with being an accessory before the fact. The punishment provided for either of these charges is death. The third count in the indictment charges Barbara with being accessory after the fact, for which

The Chesapeake and Ohio and Direct Foreign Trade.

According to an official statement of th Chesapeake and Ohio railway authorities, the gross earnings for June, partially esti-mated, were $326,525—an increase of $55,143 upon those of the same month of thusiasm that a double encore was demanded. The first piece in response was the old and familiar ballad "The Dearest Spot on Earth to Me," in which Miss Sheffield was her own accompanist. For the second she gave "The Day is Done."

The fortieth session opened with full numbers from fourteen different states, and closed on the 20th of Jane with a brilliant commencement. The improvements announced one year ago have been almost completed, and will in a few weeks receive the finishing touches.

The forty-first session will open on the 197H OF SEPTEMBER, with facilities more ample and complete than the school has commanded during its continuous history of forty successful years. Extensive literary courses are provided covering English Language, English Literature, History, Latin, German, French, Mathematics, Natural Science, Ethics. The departments of Music and Art are fully equipped and conducted under the best standards. The work in these departments received the highest encomiums from the best judges.

The school employs twenty officers and teachers. Girls and young ladies are received for a slude session or for the full period of school life, induling vacations.
The locality enjoys the advantages of a mild nountain climate, valuable medicinal waters, and the most picture-sque scenery.

This school wholly disapproves and discards the agency system for securing pupils—that system too often places airls and boys in schools and under influences of a very different character from those nfluences of a very dimercal preferred by their parents. Post-office: Bottourt Springs, Va. Depot: Cloverdale, sheuandoah Valley railroad. CHARLES L. COCKE. Apply to CHARLES L. COCKE.
